Make It Better Make It Come True

What are you doing with the rest of your life? Why not consider the possibilities of going beyond the limits of your current life? Why not look inside yourself to find whatever it takes — a sense of adventure, some self-discipline, a little courage, or just a change of plans — to try something new and worthwhile that might make you happier with yourself? From making new friends, to preparing yourself for a career at the top, there is always something new you can try.

Songleader Rebecca Palacios and JV Cheerleader Lori Farrell are proof that winning a place on the pep squads is a good way to find new friends.

Wasting time together on a sunny afternoon in Todd Park, friends like Jeff Mowbray, Scott Stewart, and Richard Johnson, can just kick back and enjoy one another's company.

Add Some New Music to Your List of Favorites

Most of us listen to only one kind of music and criticize any other types of music. But every kind of music is exciting to someone. So, why not try one of those different kinds of music? If the music is good enough for someone else to love, you might learn to like it, too. And if you do, you'll have twice as much music to enjoy.

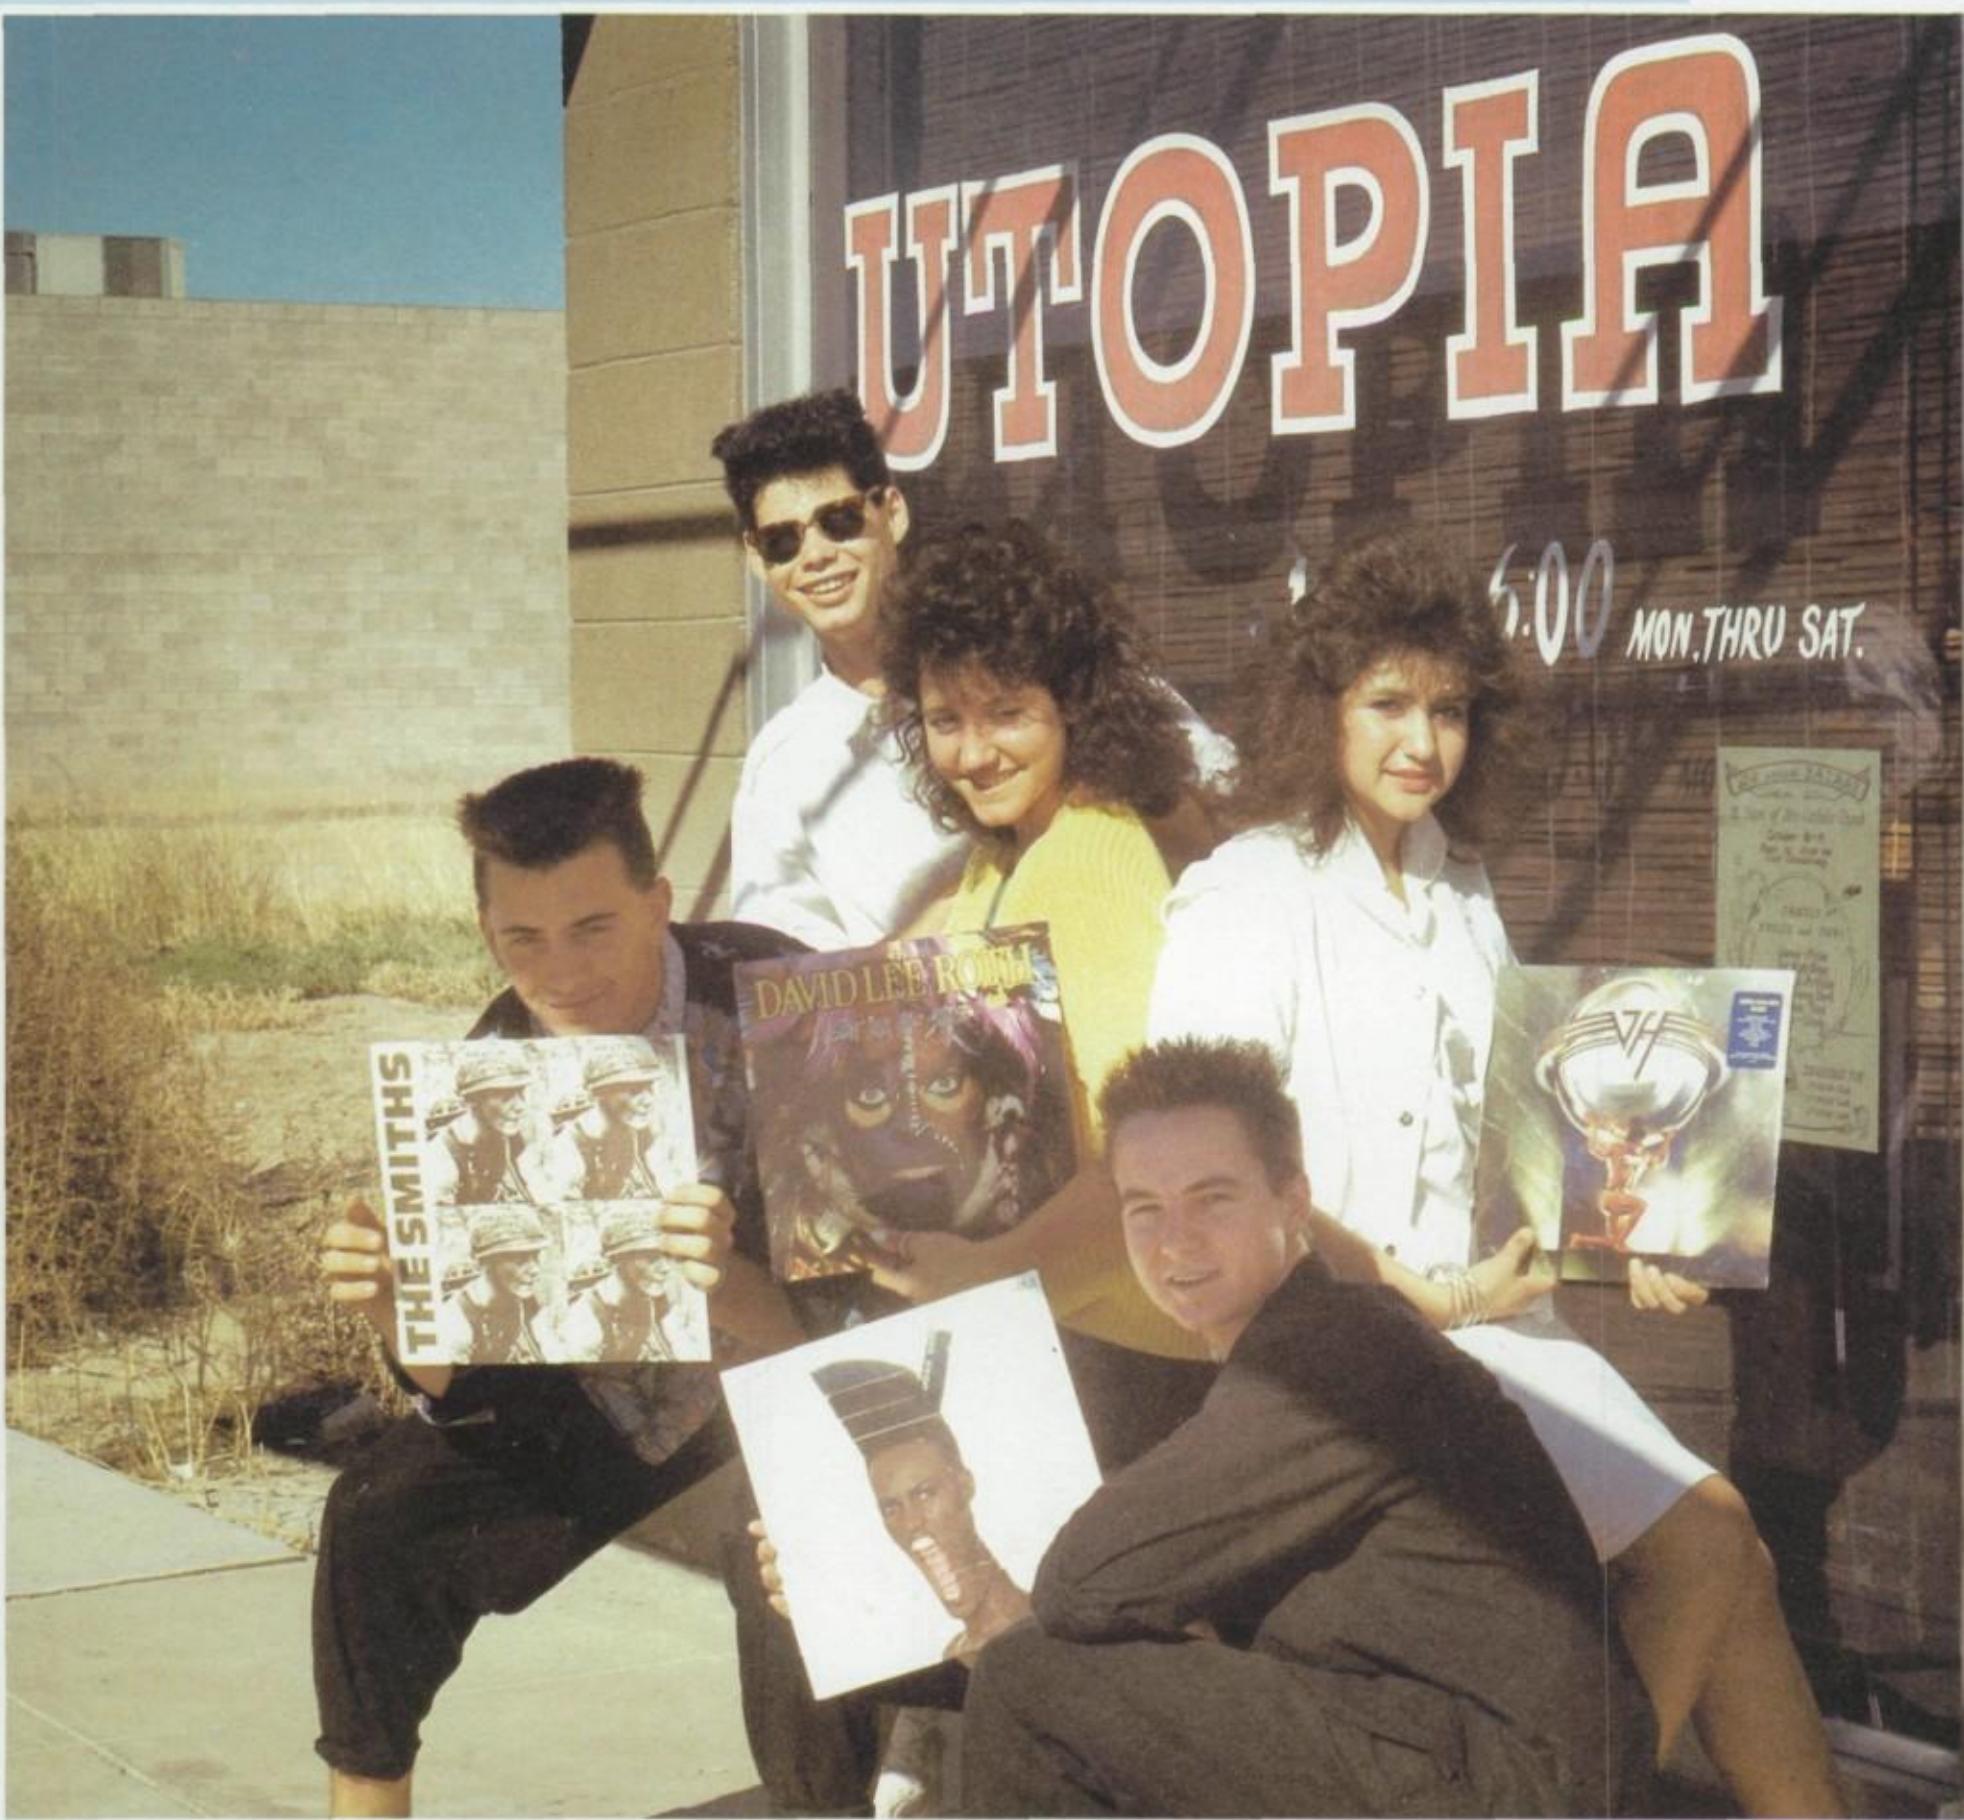

Looking for new music one afternoon at Utopia are Tim Cox, Rosa Franco, Jason Johnson, Rhonda Duvall, and Michael Hamilton.

Why Not? Say No to Alcohol

The law will not make it legal for them until they are a little older, but a surprising number of PVHS students say they cannot make it through a week without their beer or wine coolers. If you are one of those and if you think it might improve your health and your life, why not really surprise everyone and say no to all that alcohol? You might find that you can have even more fun without it.

Ready to head out into the desert after a long day at school, Jesse Rodriguez, Paul Rodriguez, Ronnie Adams, George Castro, James Barreras, and Carlo Micalizio stock up on Coke, Rootbeer, and 7-Up.

Why Not? Get Report Cards Filled With Straight A's

Even if you like the class and if you are in the mood to study, studying is always hard work. But if you want straight A's and if you want to learn enough that it does you some good, you have to study. So, why not check your daily schedule and make sure you have built in a couple of hours each day for study? It may be painful now, but the rewards will be worth it.

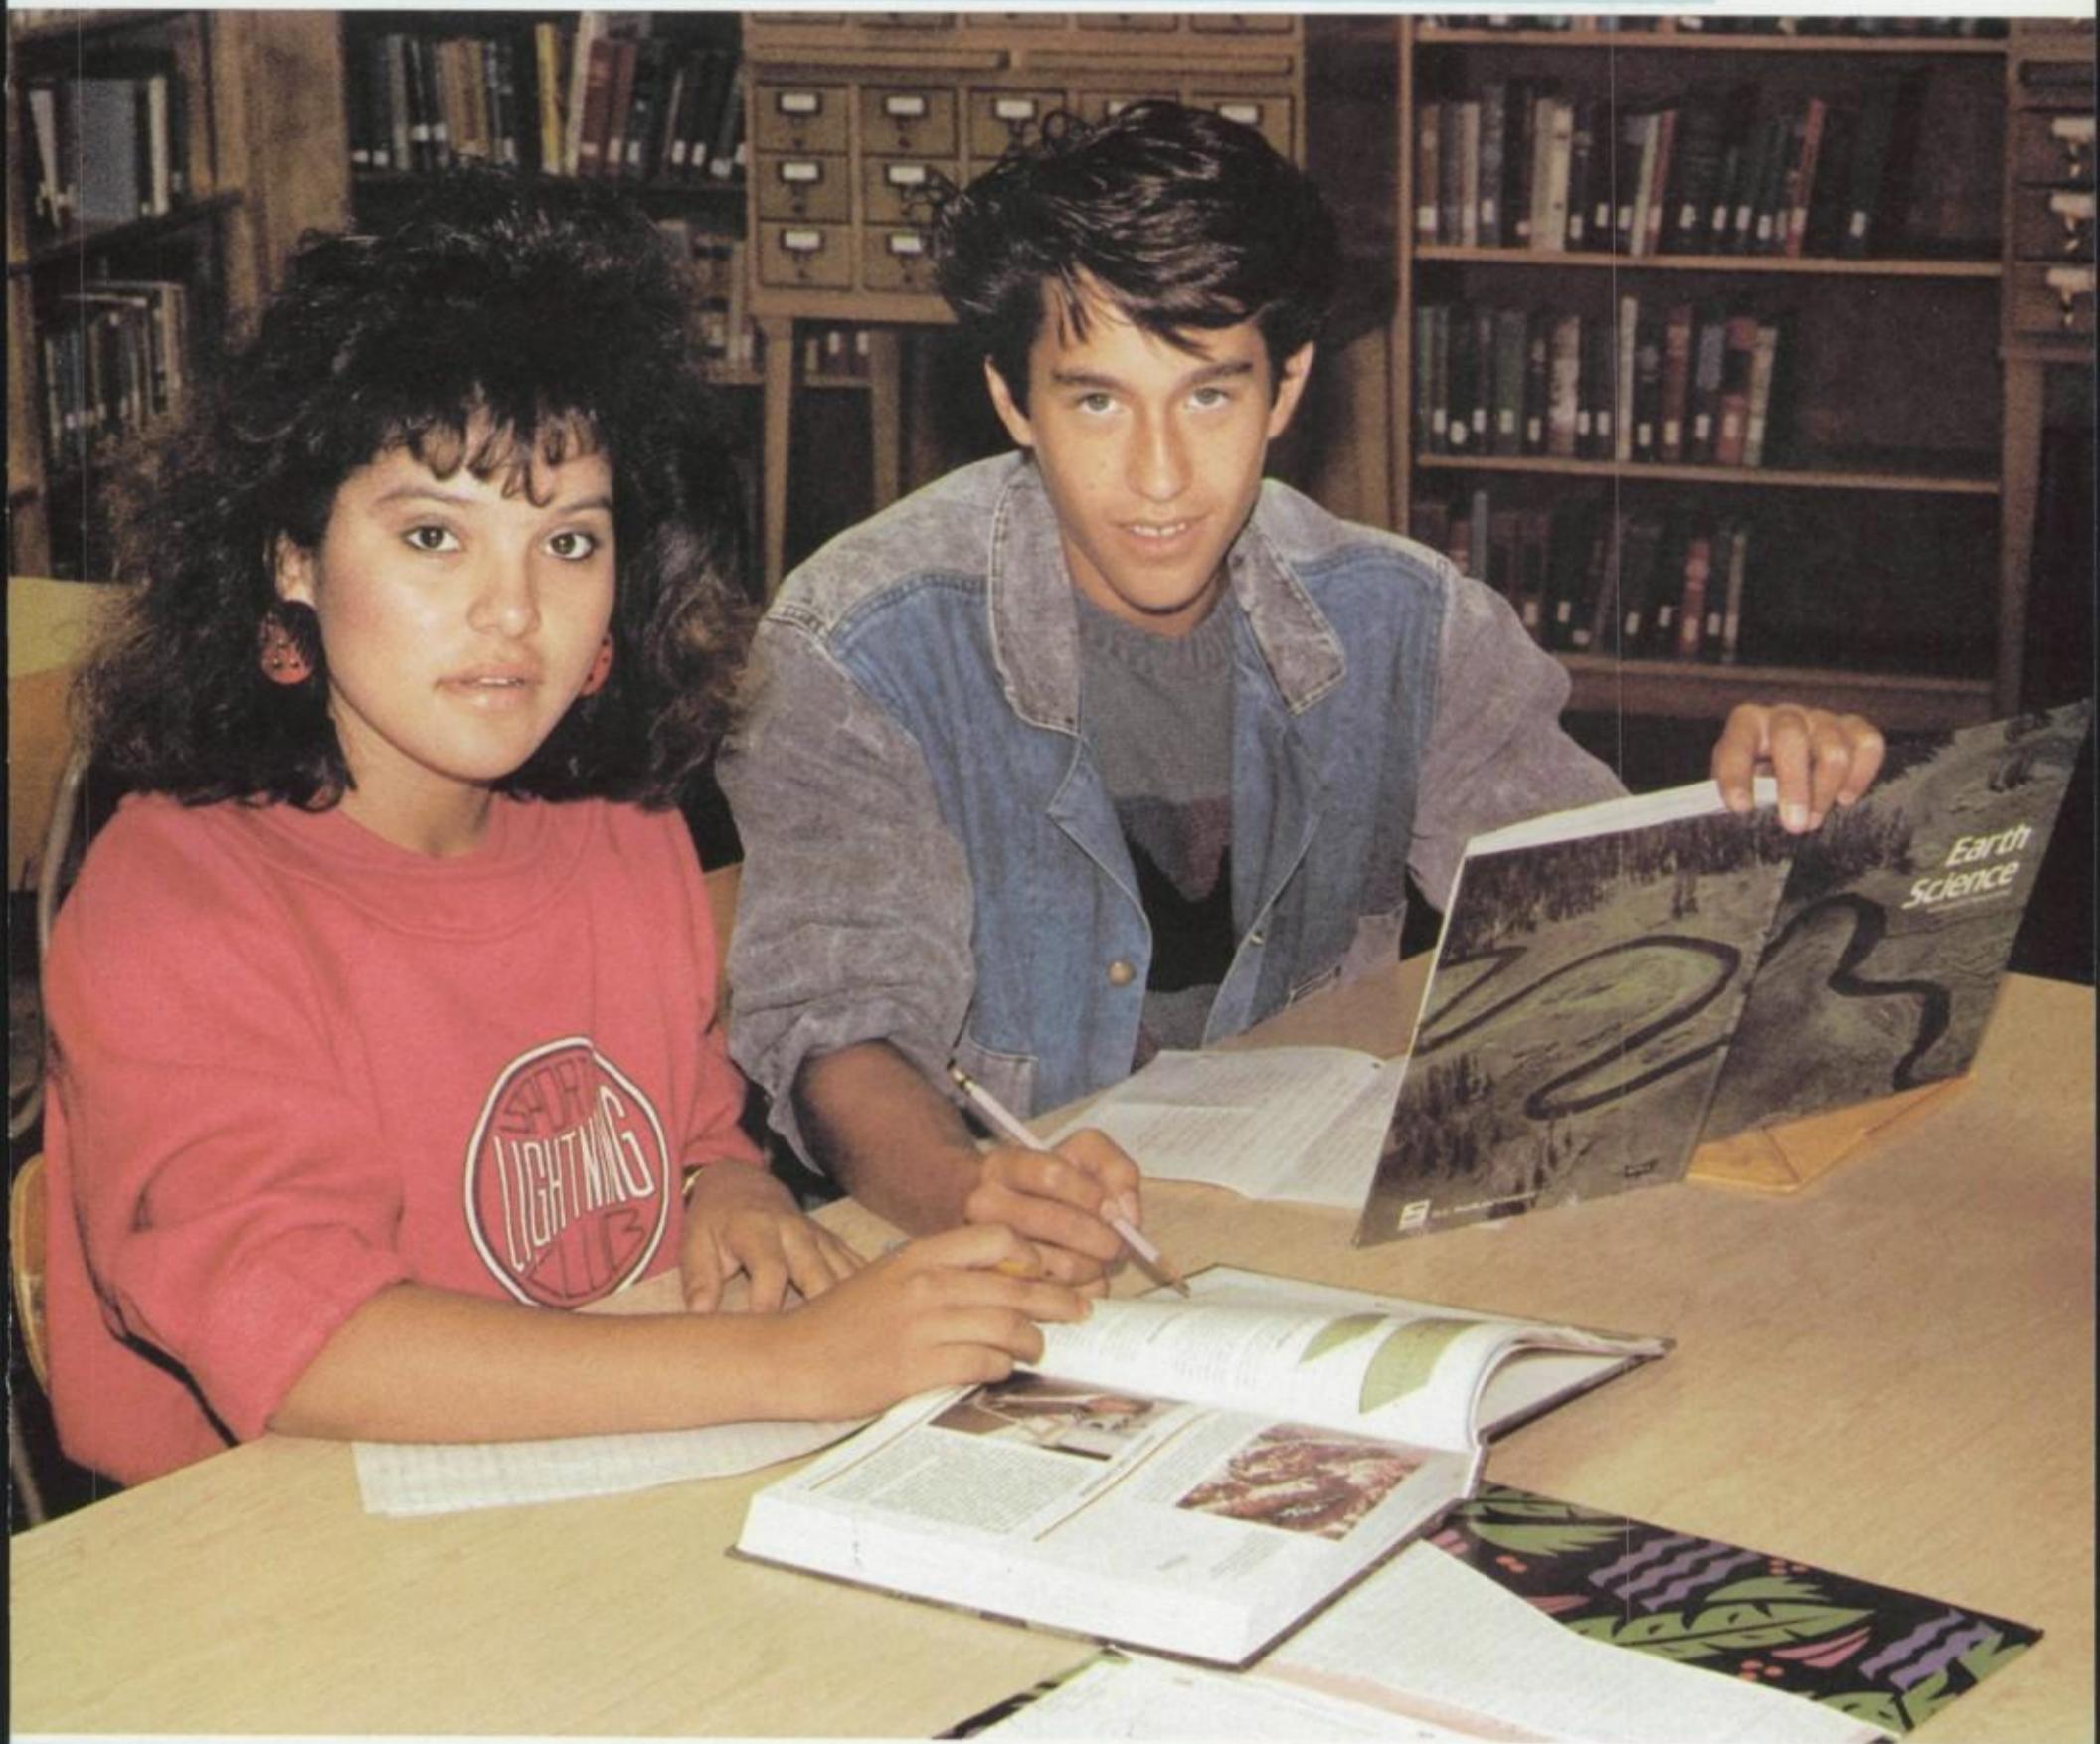

In the High School Library, sophomore Kendall Szuch finds the time to study for her classes.

Become a Yellowjacket Athlete

There are great prospects in playing high school athletics. There's the respect of the fans, the chance to test your skills and endurance, the opportunity to find good friends among your teammates, the lessons in hard work and determination that can be used in school and on the job, and for a few of the best even the chance to earn a college scholarship or a chance to play on a professional team. So why not sign on as a Yellowjacket athlete?

Why Not? Get a Little Crazy

If all you need is a change of pace or some fresh scenes in your life, why not go a little crazy? You do not have to rework your life or get into any dangerous situations. Just laugh with your friends, get up in time to watch the sun rise, spend a day dressed like David Lee Roth, or find a good tree to climb. If it does you no harm, the change may do you some good.

If two heads are better than one, why not get a whole crowd together? In this circle of problem solvers are Karen Krisell, Kandee Slater, Jodee Waples, Melissa Hamilton, Gina Garside, Theresa Wolven, Kati Cusick, and Valerie Grimes.

Cuddly Couples

On campus

What does the future hold?

These five couples are just a handful of the many duos on campus in 1986-87. Whether the years turn them into husbands and wives, lifetime friends, or just memories — they are not likely to forget the happiness they brought each other during their high school days.

Football games are where it was this year. Aaron DeDecker and Beth Marlowe went out for the first time at our first 1986-87 home game and are still together. These sophomores are not looking too far ahead; they just plan on staying together and having fun.

A post-game first date really paid off for Kent Krisell and Gina Garside. On October 4, 1985 they had their first date after Kent played in a Friday night variety football game and they are still together. They plan to be married after attending college together at San Luis Obispo where Kent will be studying law and Gina will be studying engineering.

Hair Styles Spiked, Dyed, & Wild

At PVHS this year, the students saw all kinds of hair. A lot of our students wore new styles each week. Changes could be caused by a mood or even a dare, but once one person tried a new style, a dozen imitators followed.

Mike Johnson, a PV junior, sports the spiked hair with slicked-back sides that was a favorite on campus in 1987.

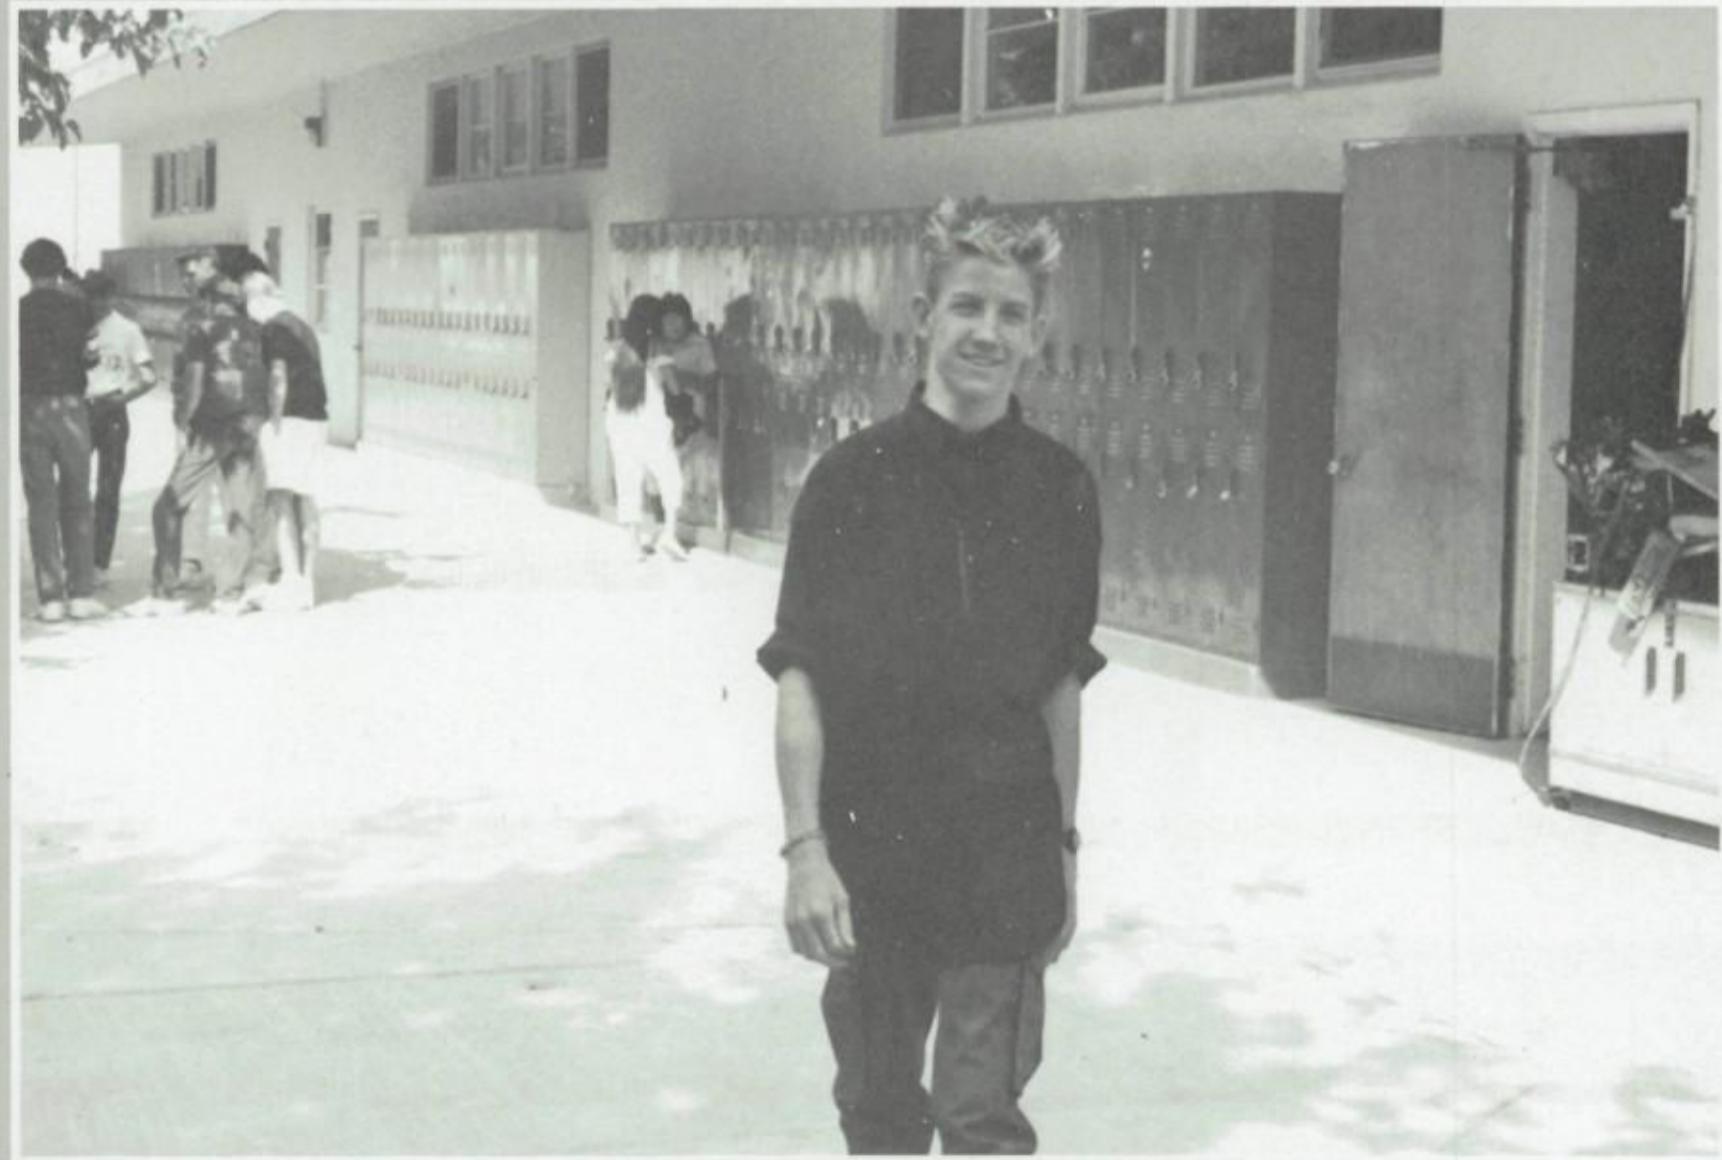

If the style fits, wear it! Making up PV's New Wave Clan are Lance Cyr, Scott Farrell Rollins, Kevin Anderson, Jasson Johnson, and Michael Hamilton. Their individuality, in the way they wear their hair, sets them off from everyone else at Palo Verde High.

Carnival!

Kids Get Even

The students of Model U.N. put on a carnival this year with teachers volunteering to help raise money for Model U.N.'s activities. There was a pie-throwing booth where many teachers got a face full of whipped cream. The dunk tank was a big hit as the crowds cheered, students pitched balls, and teachers went for swims. The carnival turned out to be a great success.

Danny Dill wipes all the whipped cream from his hands after making the pies that were to be thrown at the volunteer teachers.

Talent Show

Students Seek Stardom

In 1987 some new and exciting activities were brought to the PVHS campus. One was the Talent Show produced through the combined effort of the Drama club and the Drama class. It was the students' night to shine as they performed talents ranging from dancing to singing to playing the saxophone to acting in comedy skits. The SRO audience enjoyed watching the show as much as the students enjoyed performing.

One of the big hits at the Talent Show, Deana Gaona sings "The Greatest Love of All," a song made famous by Whitney Houston.

Getting live on his electric guitar is senior Bruce Joy performing his version of Cinderella's 1987 hit "Nobody's Fool."

Homecoming

Three Victories in a Row, Let's Make It Four

Homecoming in 1987 was enjoyed by both students and alumni. Friday afternoon on Homecoming day, the Junior Class was awarded the Spirit Stick by faculty judges for showing the most spirit at the pep assembly. That night, the Varsity team did its part by keeping the Homecoming winning streak alive. Coach Ramsey and his Yellowjackets defeated the Calexico bulldogs, making it three Homecoming victories in a row. During halftime at the game, the stadium crowd waited in anticipation for the announcement of the Homecoming King and Queen.

Homecoming Floats

Built on a Theme of 'Yellowjacket Fantasy'
Seniors' Island Takes First Place

For a first-place float, the seniors built a "Fantasy Island" to represent a Jacket victory on a football field island. Placing a very close second, the junior mixed the "Jacket Fantasy" theme with the 1986 summer movie smash Top Gun to produce a float called "The Yellowjackets are Top Gun." In the sophomores' third place float, a Jacket football player makes the extra point after kicking the Bulldog over the goal for a final fantasy score of 89 to 0. The freshman fourth place float displays "A Young Lad's Fantasy" as a mighty Jacket football player rubs Aladdin's lamp, wishing to sting the Bulldogs to defeat.

1987 PVHS Echo

The yearbook faculty adviser, Mr. Wiseman, shows Carie Covel, April Freeman, and Kati Cusick how to use a 35mm camera to take yearbook photos.

Kati Cusick, a senior, goes to any length to get a story for the 1987 yearbook.
